Improving supervision and assessment

Dr Claire Touchie, Chief Medical Education Officer, Medical Council of Canada

At the end of this workshop, participants will be able to:

- Identify common knowledge, skills and behaviours required of all trainees during their pre-vocational training
- Discuss how best to supervise these knowledge, skills and behaviours
- Outline an approach to assessment for the knowledge, skills and behaviours.

During the workshop, participants will get a brief review of:

- Supervision and of assessment in the workplace
- Using the prevocational standards, the participants will identify a few common skills and behaviours that occur in various practice settings
- Using a “tool kit” for workplace assessment, they will then outline what assessment methods will work best especially in their own settings.
